

CAUSES AND CURE OF CRIME TOPIC OF JUDGE BOYER

Associate Judge of Bucks Co.
Courts Addresses Legion
and Friends

AN ARMISTICE DINNER

Delightful Affair Attracts Many at Zion Lutheran
Hall

Crime—its causes and the cure, was the topic upon which Judge Calvin S. Boyer, Associate Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Bucks County, last night addressed the members of the Robert W. Bracken Post, No. 382, American Legion, the Legion Auxiliary and friends of both organizations.

Members and friends of the two organizations gathered at a pre-Armistice Day banquet in Zion Lutheran Hall. A delightful banquet was partaken of by 125 people seated at tables attractively arranged and amid decorations composed in the principal part of the national colors.

During the serving of the menu the evening was enlivened with music, song and mirth and previous to the speaking there were numbers given by a comedian and a few musical selections.

Places were provided for the honored guests including Judge Boyer, Joseph R. Grundy, Burgess Clifford L. Anderson; Conrad Walmsley, aide to State Commander, Department of New Jersey; and W. B. T. Colkitt, state service officer, Department of New Jersey, at the head table. Assistant District Attorney of Bucks County J. Leslie Kitchin was toastmaster, and there were the blessing and invocation by the Rev. Paul R. Ronze, pastor of Zion Lutheran Church.

Judge Boyer's remarks were a challenging call to the members of the Legion to war upon crime. In prefacing his talk he stated the fact that it was his first opportunity to address a mixed audience in the metropolis of Bucks County. He explained the high regard in which he holds the American Legion and especially at this time in the history of the country.

He told the Legionnaires that they had gone overseas in 1916 and 1917 and proven themselves, and that they had come back in 1918 and 1919 and proven themselves here in America.

"As Legionnaires you have carried on the service which you started overseas," said the speaker.

"You did not give up with the laying down of arms."

Judge Boyer told how it had come to the attention of the courts of Bucks County that but few of the ex-service men called for jury duty ever asked to be excused for that reason when all that was necessary for them to do was merely to state that they were ex-service men because this fact gives them the right to be excused from jury service.

"We, here in Bucks County are anxious to have ex-service men upon our juries because you know life and you are in the prime of life. When you went overseas you entered into a rendezvous with death and when you returned you entered into a rendezvous with life."

"You are interested in life and interested with its problems and the greatest and most serious problems of this day is crime."

Over 1100 Scouts See Princeton-Lehigh Game

Over 1100 Scouts and leaders enjoyed the Princeton-Lehigh football clash last Saturday afternoon. Boys from all over the county were present at Princeton and the tally showed that the number attending exceeded the free pass for one thousand seats secured by Scout Executive William F. Livermore, Jr. Good seats were had by all and the game presented thrills from the kick-off to the final minute of play.

Unlike that of last year and of the other years the Scouts were permitted to go to the game whether or not they had a uniform or not. The football game at Princeton, as well as the other fun and collegiate activities available to Scouts, served during the past years as a great help to the Scoutmaster who was faced with the problem of uniforming his troop. However this year the Scout Executive Board decided to temporarily drop that regulation due to the economic condition.

Of the eleven hundred Scouts and Scouters who witnessed the game, many of the Scouts returned to their homes having seen their first major athletic event. Many boys will have had stimulated within them the desire and the inspiration for our institution of higher learning and also an insight into college life.

The Bucks County Council, Boy Scouts of America, is happy to be able to bring to its members such form of activities as that of last Saturday and hopes to be able to have the experience repeated each year through the respect and regard the Princeton Athletic Society has for the manner in which the body conducted itself.

Scout Troop 2 Meets In Weekly Session

The members of Boy Scout Troop 2 held their regular weekly meeting in St. James's parish house on Monday evening with the usual good attendance.

After the opening ceremonies a short session of patrol corners was held, with the patrol instructors in charge. The vital points of the instructions were the respect due the flag and the proper method of displaying the flag in public.

Then at 8 o'clock, the main event of the evening took place. George W. Croner, post commander of Robert Bracken Post, American Legion, was introduced, and for the next forty-five minutes the troop was held spell-bound by a most thrilling and realistic description of the first Armistice Day in France. The members of the troop who were not present missed something that they would long remember, and all who heard Mr. Croner are anxiously awaiting his return on a troop program in the near future.

Among others present at the meeting were two members of the troop committee, Rev. George E. Boswell and Walter E. Leonberger.

Next Monday evening another pleasant surprise is in store for Troop 2; and, incidentally, it will be the last meeting at which registration fees will be collected, so all members are urged to be on hand to register for the coming year.

BUCKS AUTHORESS TELLS OF MANY THRILLS

Joan Lowell Relates Many Instances of Her Experiences

LAST OF THE SERIES

(Eight days Joan Lowell spent with the Coast Guardsmen, and this is the eighth of a series of stories and the thrills of the romantic authoress who was born aboard ship and who recounted her seafaring girlhood in the story, "Cradle of the Deep." The first woman ever permitted to be a part of the dangerous work performed by the Coast Guard, Joan Lowell received special permission from Washington for the purpose.)

By Joan Lowell
BOSTON, Nov. 11.—(INS)—One of the most active smuggling areas of the "rummies" is Long Island Sound—the back door to the liquor supply of New York City. The waters around Nantucket and New London are infested with the camouflaged, streamlined, gray-painted "rummies," and are a veritable caldron of activity during the dark of the moon nights.

From the Coast Guard destroyer base at New London, each night a fleet of Coast Guard patrol boats set out from the harbor to be in wait for the contact speed boats. On several occasions the patrols have been the mid-sea transfer of a load of liquor, from the "mother" ship to the contact—outside the 12-mile limit—and cannot intercept them unless they catch them inside marginal waters.

This is the routine of a rum war. At twilight the Mother Rummer lays outside the limit at a prearranged position for the contact to meet her at dark. The contact gets its load, "eavesdrops" on the radio to spot the cutters and patrol, and then makes a dash for a point ashore—and nothing will stop them. If the patrol signals the contact to stop for inspection, the speed boat ignores it—pushing on speed to evade the law enforcers.

"There is only one way to check them and that is by firing with a machine-gun at their engine—crippling them," said a patrol boat commander, who has captured 39 "rummies" in less than two years.

"Even then a 'rummy' won't give up. They will dump their stuff overboard, scuttle their boat—take a long chance on swimming for their lives or being picked up by a cutter."

"Do they fight when you take possession of them?" I asked.

"Yes, One 'rummy' crew which had been getting away with running liquor for several months by clever strategies, sunk the boat when we fired to halt it. We took the crew on board to carry them ashore. They were not bound as prisoners and were given humane treatment. And what did they do? Tried to sink the patrol boat—bashed in the lifeboat, opened up the hold of the ship, put acid in the engine. Their choice was to take a chance in the open sea with us rather than be taken to court."

The Coast Guard commander continued: "It is not our aim to kill, but to preserve lives on the sea. Unfortunately there have been a few fatal casualties—rummies being shot—but the number of Coast Guard lives taken to 1 by the outlaws far exceeds the fatalities of the rum runners."

In one week of patrol duty with the Coast Guard on the cutter Mojave, I had seen the rescue of three distressed ships, a rum chase, and on my last day I boarded a captured rum runner. The captain of the Mojave saw a speedboat with two makeshift masts and small sails headed out at sea when he was towing in the disabled trawler Boston College.

NEEDLEWORK GUILD 'OVER THE TOP' IN ANNUAL EXHIBIT

5160 Garments Displayed This Year; Gain of 352
Over 1930

GREATLY APPRECIATED

Mrs. Howard A. Foster, Glenside, is Speaker in The Community House

Bristol Branch, Needlework Guild of America, advanced in number of garments at the annual gathering this year, to the martial tune of 352 additional articles. Five thousand, one hundred and sixty garments were displayed at the exhibit in the community house yesterday afternoon; last year's total being 4,808.

That the guild is steadily advancing is shown by the fact that five new directors were gained yesterday, and the number of garments turned in each year by directors have increased, as well as quality of same.

On the honor roll this year were the following, the number of garments to their credit also being given: Mrs. Clifford L. Anderson, 466; Mrs. Frederick Krings, 378; Mrs. Henry E. Anker, 236; Mrs. James Lefferts, 208; Mrs. Louis C. Spring, 145; Miss Katherine Keating, 143; Mrs. J. Byron Johnson, 129; Miss Ida Bruden, 126; Order Eastern Star, 310; sewing department of guild, 1220.

In the aggregation of articles this year were many warm coats for boys and girls, for an unusually large number of shirts; men's household articles, including blankets, bed-linen, towels, etc.; layettes; dresses for children of all ages. The gifts of clothing on the Memorial Directorship table was increased this year by 15 more "memorials."

Mrs. Henry E. Anker, president of the guild, told of her sincere pleasure in the large number of garments and the splendid quality throughout. Mrs. Howard A. Foster, of Glenside, a director of the Glenside Guild, and president of the Labrador section of that guild, was the speaker of the afternoon.

The portions of the words, "Needlework Guild" were dissected by Mrs. Foster, who told that the word "needle" reminded her of the many instruments, (women in the guild) with eyes that see the existing need. "Work" she referred to as "A God-send, a gift from heaven." Quoting from a well-known poem she added "Toil is earth's dower." The word "guild," Mrs. Foster reminded, is taken from the older form of "gold" or "ged" which referred to a group banded together for "sacrifice or contribution." "Our guild as we know it today has grown to be an organization of great size for the protection and help of others."

Then turning to the individual letters of the words the speaker gave the following: N—ow E—ducate E—nergetically D—irectors. L—oyal leaders E—agerly W—inning O—bedurate R—eminders K—indly. G—et U—nderstanding to I—ndividuals. L—ocate D—irectors.

The Bristol Guild was complimented by Mrs. Foster on its splendid means of securing members, directors, and the manner in which money is gained (Continued on Page 3)

BRACKEN POST MEMBERS HOLD BRIEF SERVICES

Forty-Five Members Gather at Legion Home Under Commander Zug

DAY OF JOLLIFICATION

Members of the Robert W. Bracken Post, No. 382, American Legion, held appropriate Armistice Day exercises here today on the lawn of the Legion home.

Forty-five members of the Post were lined-up facing the flag and the American Legion Armistice Day service was held by Commander Zug and his officers.

The Post chaplain, Robert B. Downing, made a short prayer and then Commander Zug briefly addressed the members.

Commander Zug explained the difference between Armistice Day and Memorial Day. He stressed the fact that the former is a day for jollification and celebration of a victory won. Memorial Day is a day for remembering the dead.

The veterans then faced the west and prayers were sounded by Thomas Sommers.

Brother of Bristol Man Dies of Accident Injuries

Raymond Curtis, 46, 26 Juniper street, Burlington, N. J., died shortly before midnight in Zumburg Hospital, Riverside, N. J., of a fractured skull, received when three automobiles collided on the Burlington Pike, two miles west of Bridgeboro. Curtis was a half-brother of Mr. Joseph H. Spencer, of Bristol.

Mr. Curtis is well known here as he had been associated with the Spencer firm for the past three years as manager of their Burlington branch.

Mr. Curtis is survived by his wife, two sons and one daughter.

Four other persons, including three members of one family, were injured in the accident which happened last night.

Adelaide Shinn, twenty-five, Pennsauken, who suffered a possible fracture of the skull, and Mrs. Lillian Shinn, forty-eight, 3615 Westfield street, Camden, and Robert Shinn, four, both of whom suffered cuts, were occupants of a car driven by Esther Gauke, twenty-five, Merchantville, who also was cut.

The Curtis car and another machine crashed, after which a third motor struck the rear of Curtis' automobile. The third car, though said to be badly damaged, drove away and the identity of the occupants is not known.

Curtis was returning from a gunning trip at Woodbury at the time of the accident.

FINE CROYDON MAN FOR LIQUOR POSSESSION

George Esbacher Must Pay
$50 and Costs, Rules
Judge

HIS PLACE WAS RAIDED

DOYLESTOWN, Nov. 11.—The Grand Jury and traverse jury will meet the same week in December instead of the Grand Jury meeting alone during the first week. This change was made so that the court trials will not run too close to the Christmas holiday season. The Grand Jury will meet on Monday, December 8, and the traverse jury on December 9, it was announced by the Court yesterday.

Judge Calvin S. Boyer, who conducted court in the Grand Jury room, fined George Esbacher, of Croydon, $50 and costs after he had pleaded guilty to a charge of possessing intoxicating liquor for leverage purposes. County Detective Antonio Russo testified that the police seized 97 bottles of home-brewed beer and a quantity of whiskey with cherries in it.

An application to have a support order reduced in the case of George Muncie, of Bristol, was not changed by Judge Boyer, who heard some testimony. The original order was for $3 a week.

Judge Boyer deferred sentence in the case of Horace Borelli, of 192 South Broad street, Trenton, who appealed his case from the court of a Justice of the Peace to the county court. Borelli was fined $52.25 in Morrisville for operating a ten-ton steam roller over the streets of that borough without a special hauling permit as required by law. Judge Boyer deferred sentence.

Fortunate Recipients Eager to Taste Tempting Dishes Made by Lecturer-Demonstrator—Bags of Groceries and Household Products and Other Valuable Gifts Presented

Four hundred and fifty women sniffed significantly last evening as from the gas ranges at the Courier Cooking School Miss Grace Burroughs brought to view mock chicken legs with grilled tomato halves, a custard pie with nut crust, delicious jam cake with currant frosting, and macaroni and vegetable casserole—but five did not sniff in vain.

No, indeed! The cake was cut in half, and these gifts presented to five women who considered themselves most fortunate. They had eagerly watched Miss Burroughs in her stage-kitchen as she competently and enthusiastically went about her household tasks. Tempting odors emanated from the stage; and the tasty and attractive results of the joyous labors were greeted with "Ums" and "Ahs" of the "scholars."

All who watched the proceedings at St. James's Parish Building left with their menu slips safely tucked in their bags, eager to try each of the tempting dishes set forth.

Mrs. David O. Taylor, Radcliffe street, was the hostess of the evening, in her usual charming manner presenting Miss Burroughs, of the DeBoth Cooking and Home-Makers' Organization.

The lecturer-demonstrator, Miss Burroughs, more than came up to the expectations of the attendants, who are familiar with the fine personnel of the DeBoth group.

ADDRESS ON PEACE IS HEARD BY W. C. T. U.

Miss Marian Longshore, Langhorne, Speaks to Group of Women Here

AN INSPIRING MESSAGE

Miss Marian Longshore, county director of Department of Peace and International Relations for Bucks County, W. C. T. U., gave an inspirational address before members and friends of Bristol; union in the Travel Club home last evening.

Sessions of the League of Nations attended by her at Geneva were mentioned by Miss Longshore, a resident of Langhorne, who told of the manner in which she was impressed with the calibre of the representatives of the many countries. She stated that an idea of the hugeness of the League is readily gained when one realizes that the secretariat of some comprises nearly 600 people. The gain in interest in the league is immense, added Miss Longshore, owing to the fine accomplishments.

President Hoover, David Lloyd George, Albert Einstein, and Gandhi were quoted by the speaker, all of whom have stressed the fact that war means general ruin, and that abolition of war is a matter of life and death to civilization. Interruption of world trade by war is in itself, a loss rather than a gain, the group was told, such great tragic affairs meaning destruction to population and property.

The intense interest in the peace caravan which journeyed from California across country to Washington, was told of. Signatures to the petition urging disarmament were secured from governors, mayors, etc., and in the capital city the caravan led by Jane Adams presented the petitions to President Hoover. Miss Longshore urged that more letters and resolutions be sent to the President supporting him in his efforts toward peace; and that similar papers be sent to representatives in the various states.

The address was preceded by a short business meeting of the local union.

The Bristol W. C. T. U. had on display a framed poster which is to be presented to the Bristol High School. This poster, "America First," contains excerpts from a sermon delivered by Bishop Odham in Washington in 1924. The words are: "America First. Not merely in matters material but in things of the spirit; not merely in science, invention, ideas and skyscrapers, but also in calm assertion of right, but in the glad assumption of duties; not in flaunting her strength as a giant but bending in helpfulness over a sick and wounded world like a good Samaritan; not in splendid isolation, but in courageous co-operation; not in pride, arrogance, and disdain of other races and peoples, but in sympathy, love and understanding; not in treading again the old, worn, bloody pathway which ends inevitably in chaos and disaster, but in blazing a new trail along which please God other nations will follow into the new Jerusalem where war shall be no more. Some day, some nation must take that path (unless we are to lapse once again into barbarism) and that honor I crave for my beloved America. And so in that spirit and with these hopes I say with all my heart and soul—America First."

ATTACKS VAGRANCY LAW

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—The strict vagrancy statute, recently passed by a special session of the legislature as a greater defensive weapon in the extermination of racketeers and gangsters, contains many "errors and inequities" in the opinion of Magistrate E. R. Rudich. He says the new statute makes the prosecutors' duties more difficult. Before obtaining a conviction, it is now necessary to prove that the defendants bore evil reputations and that they had consorted for an unlawful purpose with convicted criminals.

PASTOR'S AID TO MEET

The Pastor's Aid Church will meet at the home of Mrs. Lewis Trade, 1409 Pond street, tomorrow afternoon at three o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Paul Secrest and son, Richard, of 340 Jackson street, passed Sunday in Camden, N. J., with relatives.

The exhibits upon the stage, which was divided into a model kitchen and dining room, were of the finest quality, as well as those in front of the platform. Bristol merchants, who have co-operated with the Courier in presenting this cooking school to be conducted four nights, had an unusually fine array of articles on display. The group participating and the articles displayed or used in the demonstrations are:

Keystone Dairy, milk and cream; J. C. Schmidt, flowers; Cohen's Hardware, Wear-Ever aluminum; Steinberg's Fashion Center, linens; C. W. Winter, Frigidaire; Philadelphia Electric Company, gas ranges and water heater; Bristol Public Market, fruits and vegetables; Spencer & Sons, kitchen, dining room furniture and rugs; P. E. Baylies, silverware and chinaware; McCole's Radio Shop, Majestic radio; C. S. Weatherill Estate, paints; Clymer Maytag Company, Maytag washer and ironer; Tomesani's Electrical Service, electrical appliances; Reed's Modern Grocery Store, groceries; The Special Products Company, O. C. cough drops; Fabian's Drug Store, Sea Moss hand lotion; L. C. Wetting, glassware; The Bristol Trust Company, banking; Smith's Model Shop, house dresses and Hoover aprons; General Baking Company, bread leaver; India Tea Bureau, India tea; Lever Brothers, Rinsol, Lux and Lux toilet soap; Weed Chevrolet Company, Chevrolet; Gold Medal Food, Inc., Gold Medal foods, kitchen flour and cake flour; Ramford Chemical Works, Ramford baking powder; E. L. Kerns, Trenton, N. J., leavenings.

Music was furnished prior to the session and during intermission by radio, a Majestic having been installed by McCole's radio shop.

Led by the Bond Bread Company music truck, a small parade occurred throughout the streets of the borough. Much attention was attracted by the fine music dispensed from the "orchestra" on wheels, and following were trucks of companies and merchants co-operating in presentation of the school here.

Many gifts were presented. From the stage Miss Burroughs distributed cups of delicious tea, ginger ale "highballs" and bottles of soft drinks. Other gifts included: 25 market bags filled with groceries and household products; a case of soft drinks; credit of 20 per cent on a Majestic radio; bottle of hand lotion; and a house dress.

The sessions will continue at 7:45 tonight, and Thursday and Friday evenings. The meetings are free to all. No gifts will be presented to any woman under 16 years of age. Be at St. James's parish building early this evening in order to secure a seat. Doors will open at seven o'clock.

ARMISTICE DAY

Armistice Day recalls to every true patriot the struggle for peace by the allied armies during the World War. The demobilized World War forces, scattered in every city and hamlet in this nation today, hoped for and are still looking toward world-wide peace.

Today they bow their heads in reverent thought of those who gave the supreme sacrifice, and again let their minds revert to the days of conflict, when the idea of peace was their main cause for taking up arms.

So it has been through the ages. Our forefathers fought for just causes that peace might come to reign permanently within our borders. The nations of the world today have their eyes turned toward that goal.

Armistice Day, as the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission points out, should recall to every American mind George Washington as the devout believer that he was in peace. Throughout the eight years of the Revolutionary War, General Washington fought with the aim of peace forever in mind. During his Presidency his scrupulous efforts to keep the United States out of foreign entanglements had as their aim the single thought of peace.

For Washington, particularly in his later and more mature years, war had lost whatever glamor it might have had in his eyes. To him, peace was a personal blessing as much as a goal for the people. Peace meant to him the enjoyment of his beloved Mount Vernon with its gracious life and its warm hospitality. This right to peace he felt he had won, by whole-hearted devotion to military victory. He knew the value of an honorable peace, by having paid its price in sacrifice, in trial, and even in the exposure of his person on the field of battle.

He proved the sincerity of his love of peace again and again, by the very readiness to resort to arms once more, when occasion demanded. When what is known as the "Whiskey Rebellion" threatened for a time, early in his second administration, he lost not a moment in dispatching troops to put it down. When he had retired from the Presidency to the enjoyment of Mount Vernon, he cheerfully accepted the responsibility of Commander in Chief once more, when our differences with France brought threat of war. Fortunately the storm-cloud passed, but Washington had proved his readiness to resort to the battlefield had necessity beckoned.

But the necessity of war alone induced Washington to take up arms. History records what a fighter he was, when the cause was just and the fight was forced upon him. In every other respect he was a warrior who abhorred war.

George Washington had his Armistice Day when England signed articles of peace with the victorious Colonies in 1783. The moment the cause for which he had fought was won and triumph was a reality, he turned his back on military glory. As soon as decorum permitted, he resigned his commission to Congress and turned his face toward home, never again, he hoped, to be drawn away from peaceful pursuits as a private citizen.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

"The CZARINA'S RUBIES"

by Sidney Warwick

READ THIS FIRST

Frank Severn has been kidnapped from his country home, Beggar's Court, apparently by persons trying to steal the fabulous and sinister Czarina Rubies. Severn's friend, Jim Wynter, enlists the help of Bill Grayson, a lawyer, and they search the grounds, discovering a secret stairway and a locked door in the ruins of an ancient chapel. While they plan to force the door a wall collapses, burying it under tons of masonry. They suspect Martin, a servant of Severn's, of dynamiting the wall. They begin to doubt also the sincerity of Sant, Severn's attorney.

In a village nearby they meet an ex-convict, Ilsham, who goes on crutches. Also they encounter a mysterious Dr. Martell, whose presence Martin, the servant, tries for some reason to conceal.

Grayson's wife and Katharine Farling, to whom the rubies rightfully belong by inheritance from her Russian grandfather, return to London while the two men plan to search Beggar's Court again at night. Wynter discovers Ilsham, his crutches laid aside, examining a motor boat in a boathouse. Martin and a thug named Frome try to shoot Wynter, who outwits and captures them. In the library Wynter finds an unsigned letter addressed to himself, which some one has opened and hidden away.

NOW GO ON

CHAPTER XXXIX

He had found a folded sheet thrust towards the back of the drawer. Plainly the letter he was searching for. It was headed: "To J. Wynter, Esq."—a long typewritten letter, without address or signature. Jim glanced at it rapidly; then crossed over to where his friend was keeping guard at the door, his face more startled still.

Together they read the letter through, listening all the time for the sound of returning footsteps outside. But still no sign of Sant's return. No doubt he had been glad of a pretext that gave him the opportunity of hurrying upstairs for a word with his accomplice, Martin.

"I write this," the anonymous letter began, "because I know something—and, since I believe you to be a genuine friend of the missing Frank Severn, to warn you. You are having wool pulled over your eyes. Don't take too much on trust."

"In the press accounts of the case it is stated that on that night of his disappearance you had hurried down to Beggar's Court in answer to an urgent letter from Severn. Or—supposedly from Severn? I say supposedly, because I more than suspect that long before that letter could have been written the missing man was helplessly in the hands of his enemies. And if so—well, draw your own deductions about that letter!"

"Severn was supposed to have come to England via Dieppe and Newhaven only about a week ago, and to have been met at Victoria by Sant. My answer to this is that long before then Severn had fallen into his enemies' hands here in Essex—at Beggar's Court itself. A man's foes are they of his own household."

"I am only just beginning to find out things, only groping in the dark of the fringe of the mystery yet! But because you are on Severn's side, on the side of justice, I give you these facts as a line to follow. There are good reasons why I wish to remain anonymous—and good reasons, too, which I think this letter should suggest to you, why not a hint of its contents should be given to Mr. Felix Sant?"

Bill Grayson's face was no less startled than Jim's as they read this strange unsigned letter. A bewildering letter. Its vague implications were true, it brought new undreamed of complications into the affair.

End who could have written it? Bill glanced from the typewritten sheet to the handwriting on the envelope.

Together they read the letter through, listening all the time for the sound of returning footsteps outside.

"Disguised, of course," he said. "Rather like a woman's writing, though one can't be sure."

Jim nodded. It was puzzling enough who could have written this letter. Yet that was almost the most unimportant part of it all. The chief significance of this startling communication lay in how far it was true—that, and the fact of this attempt to prevent its reaching him.

"Has it struck you, Jim, that this envelope wasn't torn open—but very carefully steamed open?" went on Bill. "And it's pretty obvious why. Whoever it was tampered with this letter, he wanted to be able after reading it to seal it up again, so that he could forward it on to you unsuspected. Only, of course, after reading it, he knew it was too dangerous to be sent on. That he'd pitched the envelope away shows that."

"The letter's anonymous—but we needn't veil the man who opened it in anonymity," said Jim Wynter impatiently. "Of course, it was Sant."

"Not much doubt about that, I fancy," agreed Bill. "Well, Sant reads that letter—decides that it's far too compromising to be allowed to meet your eyes. And, after all it's anonymous, Sant argues—how is the writer to ever know you didn't get it?"

He paused a moment thoughtfully.

"Jim, the most significant thing of all is this: If there wasn't any truth in the letter, if a mere tissue of lies, wouldn't Sant have intended to reveal it and send it on to you? Or, rather, if his conscience had been clear and he a decent, straight chap, he would of course never have opened it at all," said Bill with a shrug. "Only I wonder what made him want in the first place to open it? Was it just an uneasy conscience—or had he some suspicion from the writing who had sent that letter and feared what it might contain? Well, we don't need much clearer proof that your judgment of Sant was dead right, Jim."

For Jim Wynter had come away from Monkswyler full of a new definite suspicion.

A suspicion that had flashed across him suddenly for the first time, merely from two or three seemingly unimportant facts, but facts that when linked together took on a sinister significance; that the real secret arch enemy behind was none other than the man Severn had trusted, had believed his friend, Felix Sant.

Martin was an accomplice in the plot, of course; but Martin was an underling, a minor figure. It was Sant who was one of the moving spirits—Sant above all who had caused to be opened the door of the vault under the ruins being opened, who had engineered that crash of stone-work to keep intruders out.

"Well, we've got to decide what we're going to do about it and decide quick," Jim said. "Sant may be back at any moment."

"There's only one thing to do. Not a hint of this to Sant. Put the letter back where you found it. And we mustn't let him suspect by any change in your manner that anything's happened. That's essential, Jim. It's a card to keep up our sleeves."

Already in his own mind Jim had decided on that.

With a final hurried glance at the letter, he slipped it back where he had found it, closed the drawer again. Dropped the envelope back into the waste paper basket.

He and Bill were back in their seats by the fire before the first sound came of footsteps hurrying across the hall to the door.

"A bit of luck for us, Martin's involuntary header," Jim remarked dryly.

Bill grinned. If Martin had not been upstairs divesting himself of his dripping garments Sant would merely have had to ring the bell, not gone out himself in search of whisky and soda. Then as the footsteps neared the door he whispered urgently.

"Jim, for heaven's sake don't let him suspect from your face that anything's wrong. Just now you look as grim as a hanging judge! We've got to fight him with the gloves off presently—but we want to pick our own ground, not put him on guard to get his blow in first."

Jim was finding it difficult to look his usual untroubled, cheerful self. This confirmation of his suspicions of Sant, the discovery that the man had descended to tampering with his letters, following on tonight's treacherous attempt on his life; all this made it something of an effort to greet the man they had found out as though nothing had happened.

"Don't worry, Bill. I'll keep my end up," Jim said with a short laugh.

Bucks Authoress Tells of Many Thrills

Capt. Parker diverted the Mojave's course to haul alongside—for from appearances the boat was a disabled fishing boat. Her name plate bore the number C-3331.

"Need help?" megaphoned Captain Parker.

"Bearings burnt out in my engine, sir," answered the master.

"We'll tow you in behind the trawler," called Parker.

The Mojave hove to, signalled the fisherman on the Boston College to get a line to the C-3331. It was a strange cavalcade that approached Graves Light—a great white cutter, followed at a hawser end by a steam trawler crippled and a disabled "fishing" boat.

My cruise was finished, but the Mojave's was not. I was taken off the cutter by a patrol boat. Captain Parker instructed the officer on the patrol to board the C-3331 for a routine record, and to permit me to board with them.

The "fishing" boat was a rum-runner—they had dumped their load, however. There was not even one fishhook on board.

I went down in the hold and was nearly inebriated by the aroma of alcohol. Stored away in the forepeak were the two collapsible masts used for disguise. When asked by the boarding officer what the value of his boat was, the contact captain answered: "About 50 cents, now!"

It was with regret that I terminated my cruise. The Coast Guard had come through with five exciting adventures in seven days.

I have nothing but admiration for a service which in one year rendered 11,201 assistances, 5,241 involved the saving of lives or of property, and the rest were of a miscellaneous character, including such work as warning vessels standing in danger; furnishing fuel and water to vessels in distress; succoring the shipwrecked, dragging the water for bodies, sheltering wayfarers overtaken by storm or other misfortune; preventing theft and invasion by those maliciously inclined, and standing by always ready to aid and protect the merchant marine.

To me, the United States Coast Guard on the whole represents a sounding rod of loyalty—a turret of integrity and a watchword of vigilance.

order and good citizenship on the one hand and organized crime on the other hand."

Crime is continually gaining new recruits, contended the speaker, and it is highly organized.

"There is no one cause that you can put your finger on for crime and no one cause for its increase."

Judge Boyer then explained how it was thought that alcohol was the cause of crime but that this had been a fond dream but a false one. "Crime exists in the hearts of men," he said.

Then the speaker stated that there are those who think that should prohibition be abandoned that crime would cease. "But this is another fallacy."

"A certain amount of crime is inherent in civilization. We will always have crime, at least until the coming of the millennium. We can only hope to keep it at the minimum."

"All cause of crime can be grouped under one common cause—changed conditions of life in the last quarter of a century."

The speaker painted a vivid picture of the luxuries enjoyed by the present age which were never dreamed of by those who lived a few years ago.

He described the radio, the automobile, modern improvements in living and the conveniences which today are being enjoyed by a great majority of our people.

Millions Wed

Chicago watched with great interest—but at a distance—as Rosemary Baur, reputed to be the richest girl in Chicago, became the bride of Bartle Bull, eldest son of W. Perkins Bull, Canadian K. C. The newlyweds are shown just after the knot had been tied at exclusive St. Chrysostom's Church, Chicago.

"Crime has been made more attractive and crime has been made more profitable, and the morally and mentally weak fall for it," he said.

"Crime can be done much easier today because of the modern facilities and it can be done much more quickly."

The Judge told of the thoroughness with which crime is organized and said that orders are even placed for the booty of crime before the crime is committed and that these orders go out through a well organized ring and that the thefts are committed to fill the orders.

"Crime has increased because of the opportunity to commit it and because of the safety provided for escape."

Judge Boyer then asked his audience: "What are the remedies?"

Some think, he said, that the remedy lies in the reforming of the criminals. They suggest the building of beautiful and sumptuous jails and the making of our penitentiaries into county clubs.

"We will never get anywhere that way."

"Crime must be treated like the medical science treats a scourging disease such as yellow fever."

"The Panama Canal would never have been put through had not yellow fever been conquered."

"Did the medical profession mollycoddle their patients?"

"We must remember that there is a new supply of criminals coming on all of the time and that we must stop this supply, if we are to conquer crime."

"We must get down to the cause."

"The phrenologist," said the Judge, "has stated the fact that about nine per cent of the confirmed criminals are boys who have been raised in the slums of our large cities. We must begin with the little chips."

The speaker said that we had begun with education but that we had not been paying any attention to the homes of these little fellows.

Crime appears as heroic. Those of tender years want to emulate the criminals and it is their desire to grow up and be a gang leader.

"We must watch the leisure hours of these boys," warned the jurist.

"We must create an attitude of respect towards law and law observance for which that flag stands and for which you fought and many of your comrades died," he concluded.

Comrade Walmsley and Comrade Cocklitt spoke briefly of the Legion and its ideals and purposes. They both urged stronger support from the ex-service men.

Commander Arthur F. Zug spoke briefly as to the plans he has in mind for administration of the affairs of the Post.

SOUTH LANGHORNE

The women of Oaklithurst Chapel have formed a Ladies' Aid Society. Those elected to office are: President, Mrs. Chester Miller; vice-president, Mrs. Roy Boorse; secretary, Mrs. John Whatley; treasurer, Mrs. Julius Gehrmann. Some real activity is anticipated this coming winter through the women of the church.

The Oaklithurst Chapel boys' and girls' club meets in the basement every Thursday evening. This club was organized last week with an attendance of over 50. The object is to give the boys and girls of the community one evening of good clean enjoyment each week. Each boy and girl is to learn one verse in the Bible each week and be able to quote it by memory. Fifteen minutes is devoted to singing of hymns and choruses led by James Eaton and Grace Oakley, then the large Sunday School room is turned over for games such as air rifle practice, archery, indoor quoits, dart throwing, checkers, dominoes, skill ball, punching bags and use of gym set. Refreshments will be served once a month.

Miss Grace Oakley held two very successful services last Sunday at the Broad Street M. E. Church, Trenton, N. J.

BUSTLE BACK AGAIN WITH ITS BEAUTIFUL BOWS, ALSO FRILLS

Not Same As Those of Past Century, But Merely A Suggestion

By Alice Langelier
(L. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
PARIS, Nov. 11.—Basques and bog again by way of beautiful bows, looped draperies, overlapping frills and ruffles, and even large belt bouquets of old-fashioned posies. It is really not the veritable bustle of the late 70's and 80's, for it is only merely suggested, and very subtly suggested at that.

Mirande puts the bustle influence on a heavy black faille evening gown draped on apron lines in the front and a smart perky bow in the back which falls in fascinating cascades.

The bustle of ostrich feathers come on another black gown which has long lines of the finely-curved plumes striping the skirt and gathered to the back.

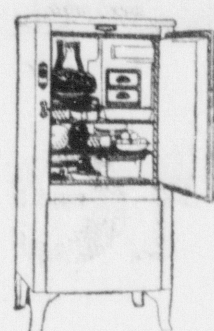

Chanel puts a particularly trig bustle effect on the back of a pearl-white slipper satin gown which hangs in seven big organ plaits and forms a beautiful puff.

Although this new-old bustle influence is largely confined to the evening gown, strong traces of it are often to be seen on the ones for afternoon, such as a frock of dull bluish purple with a complicated basque skirt rising to bustle effects in the back. It has an original square-cut neckline in back and front and the sleeves are long and tight, buttoned to the elbows.

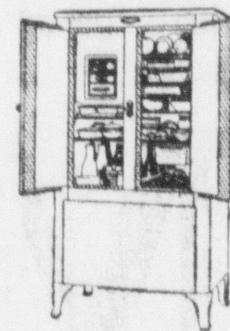

Satin and Ermine

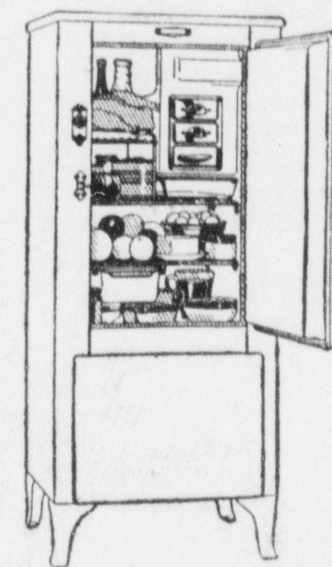

Black and white is always smart, as Marian Marsh, screen star, chooses that combination for this chic evening ensemble. Miss Marsh wears a Russian jacquette of snowy ermine over a black and white satin evening gown. The sleeves and bag match the jacquette.

VITAMINS NECESSARY FOR GROWING CHILD

Physician Stresses Importance of Them to Safeguard
Health

SETS FORTH REASONS

By E. V. McCallum, Ph. D., Sc. D.
School of Hygiene and Public Health
Johns Hopkins University

Society must measure its well-being in terms of the health of its children. No gift parents can bestow upon their children can compare with the priceless endowment of physical integrity without which they cannot hope to enjoy the maximum of health and long life which nature intended for them. Since the foundations of physical well-being are laid in early infancy, the importance of an adequate diet for the baby and young child, cannot be too strongly emphasized.

Experiments have shown that there is a definite relationship between sickness resulting from infection among preadolescent children and the way those children were fed before they were three years old. When a child is suffering from some abnormality, you often hear the consoling expression that he—or she—will "out-grow" it. Too often the parent is satisfied to adopt this passive attitude. In the light of modern scientific findings, this complacency, without an intelligent effort to discover the cause of malnutrition in childhood, may effect far-reaching and unfortunate consequences in the child's later life.

Faulty diet may cause serious consequences to the young child without the development of symptoms which definitely mark the sufferer from a deficiency disease. In other words, the child may be brought into a sort of twilight zone of what the nutritionist calls "nutritional instability" and yet show no outward signs that he is not in first-class condition. What has happened is that the child's whole general vitality is lowered and he is less capable of resisting any infection or strain to which he may be exposed.

Many of these malnourished children find their way into the school clinics. Out of twenty million school children in the United States it was stated some years ago that about fourteen million were handicapped by some kind of physical defect and that nearly two million were suffering from a grave form of malnutrition. Ten million are said to have enough teeth defective seriously to interfere with health.

No blanket rule can be given for a diet that will suit every child. A diet that induces apparently normal development in one child may not be adequate for another. The aim should be to study each individual child and plan its diet so as to make it as nearly perfect as possible. However, certain general principles must be kept in mind.

A diet that is selected from cereals, such vegetables as potatoes, turnips, beets, and carrots; and meat, is not adequate for the young child during the period when growth should be proceeding at a rapid rate. Milk and leafy vegetables must also be added; these foods, because of their value in strengthening resistance and promoting growth, are known as "protective foods."

Vitamins A and D are perhaps the two most important in planning the diet of the growing child. Vitamin A, crumbing ordinary white bread, in which is supplied abundantly in such foods as whole milk, butter, egg yolk, spinach and carrots, is more directly related to resistance of infection than any other food factor of which medical science is aware.

The importance of Vitamin D has been the subject of considerable recent study. This vitamin controls, probably absolutely, the calcification of bones and teeth. In other words, it is necessary for sound bone and tooth formation in the young body as it develops. Summer sunshine is the most potent source of vitamin D, hence its name the "sunshine vitamin." Cod-liver oil is the only other important source furnished by nature.

Infants and very young babies should be safeguarded in their skeletal development by providing at regular intervals a suitable amount of cod-liver oil, which also contains a high percentage of the other essential vitamins of infancy, the resistance-building vitamin A. The infant should also be given every opportunity for outdoor exercise in the sunlight.

Later, as the baby grows and is able to eat solid foods, vitamin D can also be included in its daily diet by diet of the growing child. Vitamin A, crumbing ordinary white bread, in which is supplied abundantly in such incorporated through a process perfected by the Paediatric Research Foundation of Toronto. This foundation is composed of a group of internationally known scientists working on nutritional problems relating to child care; they have tested the efficacy of the vitamin D bread in innumerable cases of sick children under their care.

Princess Alena Rezanseva, formerly of Moscow, Russia, now of Philadelphia, will be a guest from Wednesday until Friday of Miss Elizabeth Runyan, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanford K. Runyan, of 910 Radcliffe street. Princess Rezanseva will address the members of the Junior Travel Club, at the Travel Club Home on Thursday evening, on "Her Experiences in Russia During the Revolution," with which she will draw a comparison of "Present Day Russia."

COURIER COOKING SCHOOL RECIPES

GENERAL BAKING

CUSTARD PIE WITH NUT CRUST

1 cup flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup nut meats, pulverized
1/3 cup shortening
Ice Water

METHOD: Combine flour, salt, and nuts, mixing well. Cut in shortening and when well blended, add enough ice water to combine ingredients. Roll out on pastry cloth and line pie pan.

CUSTARD FILLING

3 eggs
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup nut meats
NUT CRUST: Beat eggs and sugar thoroughly. Add remaining ingredients, except nuts, and stir well. Pour into unbaked nut crust and bake in hot oven, 450 degrees F., for 15 minutes. Reduce heat to 325 degrees F., sprinkle nuts over top of pie and continue baking until custard is firm, about 25 minutes.

JAM CAKE

1/2 cup shortening
1 cup brown sugar
3 eggs
2/3 cup strawberry jam
2/3 cup chopped nuts
1/2 cup seedless raisins
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup vanilla
1/2 cup nut meats

METHOD: Cream shortening and brown sugar. Add eggs, strawberry jam, chopped nuts and raisins. Beat well and add sifted dry ingredients alternately with milk. Add vanilla. Bake in layers at 375 degrees F. Frost with Currant Frosting.

CURRANT FROSTING

1/2 cup currant jelly
1-1/4 cups sugar
2 egg whites
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup shortening
1 cup cake flour
1/2 cup baking powder
1/2 cup almond
1/2 cup cinnamon
1/2 cup nutmeg
2/3 cup milk

METHOD: Mix jelly, sugar and water. Cook to thread stage. Pour slowly over beaten egg whites. Beat to spreading consistency.

INEXPENSIVE SPONGE CAKE

1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup shortening
1/2 cup cake flour
1/2 cup baking powder
1/2 cup almond
1/2 cup cinnamon
1/2 cup nutmeg
2/3 cup milk

METHOD: Beat the eggs until very light with a rotary egg beater. Beat in the salt, sugar and flavoring, then the milk which is boiling hot and which has been heated with the shortening. Sift the flour once before measuring, then sift with the baking powder and beat in. Pour very quickly into a greased and floured pan and bake 25 to 30 minutes in a moderate, 350 degrees F., oven.

LADY FINGER SANDWICH

1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup shortening
1/2 cup cake flour
1/2 cup baking powder
1/2 cup almond
1/2 cup cinnamon
1/2 cup nutmeg
2/3 cup milk

METHOD: Spread two slices of bread with butter. Cover one with softened cream cheese and the other with strawberry jam. Put slices together, remove crusts and cut in narrow strips to resemble lady fingers.

BAKED BANANA DUMPLING

4 large bananas
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup shortening
1/2 cup cake flour
1/2 cup baking powder
1/2 cup almond
1/2 cup cinnamon
1/2 cup nutmeg
2/3 cup milk

METHOD: Cut bananas in half lengthwise. Peel and wrap each in strips of pastry which have been rolled very thin. Close ends to hold in juice. Bake in moderate oven, 375 degrees F., until golden brown, about 30 minutes. Serve with Hard Sauce.

HARD SAUCE

3 tablespoons butter
1-1/4 cups 4X sugar
1/2 teaspoon orange extract
METHOD: Cream butter, add extract, work in sugar until stiff. Mold oblong shape, and place in refrigerator to set. Serve on freshly baked banana dumplings.

MACARONI AND VEGETABLE CASSEROLE

2 green peppers, chopped
1 pint tomato, chopped
2 small onions, chopped
1 can mushrooms, drained
4 tablespoons shortening
2 tablespoons flour
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup vanilla
1/2 cup nut meats

METHOD: Brown the peppers, pimiento, onion and mushrooms in the shortening. Add the flour, salt and gradually the liquid, stirring until smooth and creamy. Pour over the well beaten egg. Add the macaroni and flaked fish. Place in well greased casserole. Sprinkle crumbs over top of loaf. Bake in moderate oven, 375 degrees F., for one half hour. Serve with Tomato Sauce.

TOMATO SAUCE

2 tablespoons shortening
2 tablespoons flour
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup vanilla
1/2 cup nut meats

METHOD: Melt shortening, blend in flour and add salt and pepper. Add tomato puree and cook until thick, stirring constantly.

FRUIT MUFFINS

1/4 cup shortening
3/4 cup finely chopped cooked fruit
1 egg
1/2 cup whole wheat flour
1/2 cup white flour
1/2 cup baking powder
1/2 cup milk

METHOD: Cream shortening, add fruit and mix well. Then add beaten egg, sifted flour with baking powder, and milk. Beat thoroughly and pour into greased muffin pans. Bake in a hot oven, 450 degrees F., for 25 minutes.

CORN SALAD

1 can corn, drained
1 cup celery, cut
1 cup onion, cut
1/2 cup green pepper, cut fine
1/2 cup tomato, puree
1/2 cup salt, pepper, paprika
1/2 cup mayonnaise

METHOD: Mix all thoroughly with mayonnaise. Serve on lettuce leaf and garnish with mayonnaise and slices of pickled beets, or pickles cut in fan shape.

PICKLE FANS (GARNISH)

1 can corn, drained
1 cup celery, cut
1 cup onion, cut
1/2 cup green pepper, cut fine
1/2 cup tomato, puree
1/2 cup salt, pepper, paprika
1/2 cup mayonnaise

METHOD: Select small cucumber pickles of uniform size. With a sharp knife cut them lengthwise into slices thin as paper without detaching the slices at one end. Then spread out the slices to resemble fan.

MOCK CHICKEN LEGS WITH GRILLED TOMATO HALVES

1 can corn, drained
1 cup celery, cut
1 cup onion, cut
1/2 cup green pepper, cut fine
1/2 cup tomato, puree
1/2 cup salt, pepper, paprika
1/2 cup mayonnaise

METHOD: Cut beef and pork into 1-1/2 inch cubes. Put four of each on wet skewer, alternating beef and pork cubes. Roll each "drum stick" in beaten egg, then in bread crumbs. Let meat stand 1/2 hour after crumbing to settle the crumbs and the egg batter. Heat a generous amount of shortening in heavy frying pan or hot roasting pan. Brown the drum sticks in it, turning the meat to brown on all sides. Then add a little hot water and cover. Bake in a moderate oven for two hours. When done, push the meat down to one end of the skewer and place a paper collar or grill on the other end. These look like chicken legs and may be served either hot or cold, for bridge, luncheon or picnic.

Serve with grilled tomato. Brush tomato slices with melted butter, dip in cracker crumbs. Place on pan broiler, broil until golden brown.

FISH COCKTAIL SAUCE

1/4 cup stiff mayonnaise
2 tablespoons chili sauce
2 tablespoons horseradish
2 tablespoons chopped sweet pickles
METHOD: Mix and chill ingredients. Serve small portions on sea food.

FROZEN CREAM CHEESE WITH PRESERVED FIGS

3 packages cream cheese
1 cup whipped cream
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
Preserved Figs

METHOD: Mash cheese to smooth paste. Blend in whipped cream, salt and sugar. Put in refrigerator tray and let stand several hours. To serve, unmold, cut in squares, place on lettuce leaf, decorate center with preserved figs and serve at once.

HERE'S NEW VICK PLAN FOR BETTER "CONTROL-OF-COLDS"

Made Possible by New Vick Product Based on New Idea for Prevention of Colds

Bristol druggists authorized to sell new product on trial to Vicks Vapo-Rub users and refund price if Vick Plan does not reduce family's yearly "Colds-Tax."

Mothers are guardians of the family health and directors of the family budget. It is the mothers who have the worry of colds and their cost. And it is the mothers who especially appreciate the new Plan for better "Control-of-Colds" in the home—just announced by the makers of Vicks Vapo-Rub.

This plan is made possible by a new preparation, Vicks Nose & Throat Drops, based on a new idea in "preventing" colds. It is a companion product to Vicks Vapo-Rub, the modern method of "treating" colds. That is, they aid and supplement each other.

Here, briefly, is the Vick Plan for better "Control-of-Colds" in the home:

1.—Before a Cold Starts.

Use Vicks Drops—just a few drops up each nostril—whenever you have been exposed to anything which your own experience tells you is apt to be followed by a cold—contact with others having fresh colds, crowds, stuffy ill-ventilated rooms, public places—a night on the Pullman or a dusty automobile ride—sudden changes in temperature, wet or cold—inhalation smoke, dust, gases—excesses in living, such as over-eating, smoking or drinking—after a hard day, when you are over tired.

In short, don't wait for that stuffy, sneezy irritation of the nasal passages. Then you are not "catching cold"—you have already caught one.

2.—After a Cold Starts.

At night, massage the throat and chest well with Vicks Vapo-Rub—now available in "stainless form," if you prefer. Spread on thickly and cover with warm flannel. Leave the bed—lothing loose around the neck so that the medicated vapors arising may be inhaled freely all night long. During the day, use Vicks Drops every few hours—any time, any place.

This gives you a full 24-hour treatment and without the risk of too much internal "dosing," which so often upsets the digestion—especially of children. Both these Vick products are external. They can be used freely and as often as needed without the slightest harmful effect.

Trial Offer to Vick Users.

You have Vicks Vapo-Rub. Now, get a bottle of Vicks Nose Drops. Use it with Vapo-Rub as directed in the Vick Plan for better "Control-of-Colds" in the home. If you are not satisfied that it actually reduces your high cost of colds this winter, your druggist is authorized to refund your money. (Adv.)

Bucks County Folks At Meeting in Philadelphia

In the Rose Garden of the Bellevue-Stratford, November 6th, the committee on "Cause and Cure of War" held a conference for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, presided over by Mrs. Frank Miles Day.

Hon. George W. Norris, president of the Federal Reserve Bank; and Felix Morley, banking institutions, former correspondent of the Baltimore Sun in Geneva, Japan, China and the Philippines, spoke on "The Present Status of International Finance."

The open forum brought out the cost of propaganda for useless war preparedness.

Mrs. Laura Puffer Morgan, of Washington, D. C., of the National Council for Prevention of War, discussed "Disarmament," and Miss Thomson, of France, spoke on "The Coming Conference in February, 1932."

Among those present from Bucks county were: Mrs. Lucy A. Harper, president of Bucks County W. C. T. U.; Mrs. Arthur F. Hager, president of Federation of Women's Clubs of Bucks County; Miss Marion Longshore, Mrs. Nelson Allison, president of Langhorne Sorosis; Mrs. Henry Williams, Jr., Mrs. Karl Schneider, Mrs. Joseph Andressy, Langhorne; Mrs. William Janney, Newtown; M. A. Lowmes, Churchville.

To Demonstrate New Greatly Simplified Way in Home Baking

Miss Grace Burroughs, Famous Cooking Authority and Lecturer, to Show How "Kitchen-tested" of Flour Makes Home Baking Easier Than Ever Before

Miss Grace Burroughs

noted cooking authority, now conducting her famous cooking school at St. James's Parish Building, under auspices of The Bristol Courier

If you want to know how to make home baking easier than you'd ever believe possible—then we urge you to attend the DeBoth School to be held at St. James's Parish Building on November 10th to 13th. At this time, Miss Grace Burroughs is to demonstrate how the Gold Medal "Kitchen-tested" process of flour milling simplifies home baking.

What "Kitchen-tested" Means
Gold Medal "Kitchen-tested" Flour means flour that has been tested in a home oven, just like yours, for uniformity of results, before it goes to you. Every batch tested for home baking of cakes, pies, pastries, breads, by a number of experts directed by the noted cooking authority, Betty Crocker. For the Great Kitchen Thrill, try this way today. Get Gold Medal "Kitchen-tested" Flour at any grocery store. New "Kitchen-tested" recipes are inside the sack.

LEHIGH COUNTY IS BIG TEXTILE CENTER

Bucks' Neighboring County
Produced Textiles in 1930
Valued at $146,830,300

FIGURES ARE GIVEN

HARRISBURG, Nov. 11.—Lehigh county, one of the big textile districts in Pennsylvania, turned out products in 1930 valued at $146,830,300 according to a statement made today by Secretary of Internal Affairs Philip H. Dewey. In 1929 industrial products in the county were valued at $174,883,200, the decrease last year being due to the general depression throughout the country.

In Allentown last year industrial products were worth $109,231,100 as compared with $120,080,300 in 1929.

Statements made by Secretary Dewey were based on the results of an industrial survey made by the Bureau of Statistics in his department. The survey covering industry last year showed that Lehigh county in 1930 had 419 industrial plants representing 117 different kinds of industry, the plants being operated by 152 individuals, 66 partnerships and 201 corporations. These plants during the year gave employment to a total of 27,747 persons, 24,078 being wage earners while 3,669 were salaried employees. The wage workers in industry in the county included 21,519 Americans white, 35 Americans colored and 2,524 foreigners. There were 15,870 male wage workers and 8,208 female wage employees who were paid $25,379,000 in wages, the male workers receiving $19,794,000 while female employees were paid $5,585,000. Salaried workers in industry in the county received $9,033,100 last year, a sum which brought the total industrial payroll up to $34,412,100.

In 1929 the industrial payroll in Lehigh county amounted to $39,583,300, wage workers receiving $30,468,800 while salaried employees were paid $9,116,500. In 1929, also, there were 406 industrial plants employing 25,314 wage workers and 3,815 salaried employees. Wage workers in industry in that year included 16,427 males who were paid $23,321,200 and 8,887 females who received $7,147,600.

In keeping with the decrease in production valuation and salaries and wages, invested capital decreased slightly in Lehigh county last year, the total invested being $72,622,600 as compared with $75,630,300 in 1929.

Secretary Dewey explained that during last year Textiles and Textile Products led the other industrial classes in the county with a value of $60,649,900, silk goods including rayon being valued at $48,206,800. Metals and Metal Products stood second in classified industry with a value of $47,672,600, primary metals being worth $1,939,400, the balance representing the value of secondary metal products. Food and Kindred Products occupied third position with a value of $11,711,100, slaughtering and meat packing being valued at $5,236,000. Clay, Glass and Stone Products ranked 4th and were worth $10,957,000, the cement production in the county being valued at $10,382,300. Other industrial classes were valued as follows: Chemicals and Allied Products, $2,433,400; Leather and Rubber Goods, $991,400; Lumber and its Remanufacture, $2,824,500; Paper and Printing Industries, $2,733,800; Mines and Quarries, $1,230,400; Tobacco and Its Products, $4,500,800; and Miscellaneous, $1,115,400.

Despite the decrease, some idea of the immensity of production in Lehigh county may be gained by a study of the quantities table, which among other things, shows that last year Lehigh County produced 11,638 tons of fertilizers, 9,172,000 building bricks, 7,223,149 barrels of cement, 419,268 pounds of confectionery, 140,038 barrels of flour, 345,794 gallons of ice cream, 59,405 tons of manufactured ice, 101,887 pairs of shoes, 2,518,394 cigar boxes, 841 dozen caps, 63,575 dozen pairs of cotton, wool and mixed hosiery, 51,087 dozen pairs of silk hosiery, 4,016 dozen overalls, 40,490 dozen shirts, 54,168 tons of wire rods, 1,604 tons of sand and gravel, 83,781,000 cigars and 781 dozen brooms.

In Allentown, where industrial products were worth $109,231,100 last year, there were 268 industrial plants representing 94 kinds of industry and operated by 102 individuals, 46 partnerships and 120 corporations. The various industrial plants in the city employed 15,628 wage earners and 2,244 salaried workers during 1930, a total of 17,872 industrial employees.

Night Coughing Quickly Stopped

Night coughing is almost always caused by an irritated, inflamed throat; so is almost all coughing. Ordinary cough syrups do not reach these conditions, but Thoxine, a prescription exclusively for throat troubles, does. It relieves the irritation and the cough stops within 15 minutes. And Thoxine goes still further—it eliminates the internal cause which many times develops into serious illness.

A swallow of Thoxine before retiring absolutely prevents night coughing and insures a good night's sleep. It gives the same speedy relief for sore throat too. It contains no chloroform or other harmful drugs and children like it. Relief is guaranteed within 15 minutes or money back. 35c, 60c, and $1.00 bottles. Sold by: Cameron's Drug Store, and all other good drug stores. (Adv.)

Wage workers included 14,283 Americans white, five Americans colored and 1,340 foreigners. There were 9,765 male wage workers and 5,563 female wage employees in industry who were paid $16,564,600, the males receiving $12,464,900 while female wage workers were paid $4,099,700. Salaried workers last year received $5,261,000, which, combined with wages, made the total industrial payroll in the city amount to $21,825,600.

In 1929 there were 272 industrial plants in the city which employed 17,304 wage workers and 2,569 salaried employees, a total of 19,873 persons. Wage workers in 1929 were paid $21,311,500, the 10,845 male workers receiving $15,950,500 while 6,459 female wage employees were paid $5,361,000. Salaries amounted to $5,823,400 in 1929 an amount which made the total industrial payroll for that year in the city amount to $27,134,900.

Capital invested in industry in Allentown last year totaled $46,530,200 as compared with $52,035,400 in 1929.

Textiles and Textile Products led the various industrial classes in Allentown in 1930 with a value of $46,530,200, and Metals and Metal Products stood second and were worth $34,670,900. Other industrial classes in the city were valued as follows: Chemicals and Allied Products, $1,158,200; Clay, Glass and Stone Products, $162,000; Food and Kindred Products, $9,339,500; Leather and Rubber Goods, $968,600; Lumber and its Remanufacture, $2,116,600; Paper and Printing Industries, $2,673,000; Mines and Quarries, $243,400; and Tobacco and its Products, $4,114,200.

Thousands watch these "no-work" suds wash clothes snowy without scrubbing or boiling!

IT'S AN exciting demonstration. To those who have never seen it before, it's thrilling. For right on the platform, before your very eyes, you see clothes washed snow-white—spotless—without scrubbing, almost without effort!

No woman who does any wash at home—or has it done for her—should miss this demonstration. For it shows clearly the difference between Rinso and ordinary soaps. It shows how Rinso soaks out dirt—saves scrubbing—saves the clothes.

Most important of all, it shows how much richer Rinso suds are than those produced by the usual soaps. Cup for cup, Rinso gives twice as much suds as lightweight, puffed-up soaps . . . and they're live, lasting suds! Safe for the finest cottons and linens. The expert will explain how Rinso keeps colored things bright and fresh even after dozens of washings.

Makers of 40 famous washers say,
"Use Rinso!"

When you see this amazing demonstration you'll understand why Rinso is so wonderful in washers, too. The makers of 40 famous washers recommend it.

Come early! Get a good seat! See for yourself how Rinso revolutionizes washday—why millions now use this wonder-working soap!

"WE discovered by laboratory tests that Rinso soaks out dirt and spots with very little rubbing . . . washes snowy-white without boiling. Saves clothes and spares hands, too."

"As a result, we urge women to trust even their finest cottons and linens to its care. We also advise it for all household cleaning. Rinso is a great work-saver and its rich suds make it very economical."

"We tested it in washing machines also, and are not surprised that makers of 40 leading washers recommend Rinso!"

EYNON EXPLAINS AUTO INSPECTION

Is Anxious That Only Competent Places Get State O. K.

STATES HIS REASONS

HARRISBURG, Nov. 11.—With applicants for appointment as official motor vehicle inspection stations and their places of business now being inspected by the Pennsylvania State Highway Patrol, Benjamin G. Eynon, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, today explained the safeguards the vehicle code has erected to insure competent inspection.

The Secretary of Revenue has the authority to suspend the certificate of appointment of any station not making proper inspections or conducting its business improperly. In either event the station may be required to surrender its certificate and all other forms of the Department of Revenue. Display of any sign indicating an official inspection station is forbidden unless a certificate of appointment has been issued.

Official stations are required to display conspicuously their certificates of appointment. The sale or giving away of official inspection stickers without an inspection of a motor vehicle having been made is expressly forbidden. Stickers and report forms will be serially numbered and padded in combination. The sticker placed on of the State during one of the inspection a vehicle will bear the same serial number as the report form submitted for that car. Stations will be required to make a report on every car presented for inspection. If the necessary repairs and adjustments are not made or if the owner attempts to delay the inspection, stations will be required to make a report and attach to it the unused sticker.

In the event of an accident due to the negligent manner in which the station performed its duty there is the possibility of civil action for damages by the person injured. If an official station does not perform all of its duties as required by law, the owner or proprietor is subject to a fine of $25 and costs of prosecution upon summary conviction before a magistrate.

The entire list of official stations appointed last year and hundreds of new ones have been circularized with an application form and circular of instructions. In addition to meeting the requirements of the department in respect to space, equipment, personnel and ability to do the work, applicants must also establish the character, honesty and reliability of themselves and their places of business.

Governor Gifford Pinchot has designated two compulsory inspection campaigns annually. The first starts January 1 and will run three months. The second starts July 1 and continues three months. Owners or operators of uninspected vehicles will be subject to arrest for a period of three months following each campaign.

The same regulations will be in effect as in previous years with respect to Pennsylvania cars having been out in combination. The sticker placed on of the State during one of the inspection periods and subsequently returning to Pennsylvania. They will be required to have an inspection made at the point nearest their entry into this State.

GENEVA DREAMS WINTER

GENEVA, Nov. 11.—Hotel proprietors and inn-keepers all over Switzerland who have had none too brilliant a summer, are greatly concerned over the winter sports season. What with world conditions as they are, very few Americans travelling abroad and the British government urging citizens to stay within the Empire, the outlook is by no means optimistic. At a meeting of hotel keepers it was proposed that all former British visitors to the winter centres would be offered the pound sterling at 22 Swiss francs. But this will probably do little toward making the patriotic-minded Englishman leave his country for a holiday.

FOR LARGE returns turn to the Classified Section for guidance.

"FLAPPERS" GOOD MOTHERS

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 11.—The flappers of ten years ago are not only good mothers today, but they also are performing their duties far better than mothers of former generations. This is the opinion of Mrs. B. F. Langworthy, of Winnetka, Ill., vice-president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers. "For the greater part they have not been satisfied merely with caring for the physical welfare of their children," Mrs. Langworthy says. "They insist on homes and school training that will give us the best citizens, both physically and mentally, that we have ever had."

BACK FROM AFRICA

Thomas Murray, Jr., who has been spending the past eighteen months in Morocco, Africa and Calcutta, India, as the foreign representative of the Reo Motor Company, has returned to the States, and is passing some time with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Murray, of Walnut street.

GEORGE WASHINGTON HOST AND HUNTSMAN

Writings of First President
Show He Was Follower of Hounds

WAS SUPERB HORSEMAN

That General George Washington was an enthusiastic huntsman is evidenced in many of his own writings and letters, according to the Division of Information and Publication of the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission. He was a superb horseman; many contemporaries in their writings noted his splendid appearance on horseback. Lafayette, indubitably, in a letter home, spoke of him as the most magnificent figure he had ever beheld, when mounted on his white charger.

General Washington loved his horses and his dogs, and enjoyed the keen sport and excitement of the chase. In fact, he joined in hunting and all sports and games more for this reason than for honors or success.

He was in the habit of hunting three times a week if the weather was favorable. During the hunting season,

Mount Vernon entertained many sporting guests from the neighboring estates, from Maryland and elsewhere. These guests arrived, not of days but of weeks, during which time they were entertained royally in the good old style.

Breakfast was served at candlelight, the table groaning with the bounty of delectable Southern dishes. Washington himself, however, rarely partook of anything but Indian corn-cakes and milk. He often asked the blessing at his table, unless there was a clergyman present, all standing during this ceremony.

At dawn the cavalcade would be ready to start, Washington mounted on his favorite hunter, Blueskin, a fiery animal of great endurance, dark iron gray in color. For hunting he wore the fashionable costume of the times, a blue coat, scarlet waist-coat, buckskin breeches, top boots and a velvet cap. He carried a whip with a long thong.

Billy, who was Washington's body-servant during the war, rode with the hounds, mounted on Chinkling, a French huntsman's horn slung across his shoulders, riding fearlessly through brake and tangled wood, in a style which would strike terror to the heart of most modern riders.

Washington took great pride in his hounds and had his pack so critically drafted as to speed and bottom, that in running, if one dog lost the scent, another was immediately at hand to recover it. When running in full cry, you could "cover the pack with a blanket."

Mt. Vernon had a large kennel of hounds and a fine stud of horses. Washington kept with his own hands a careful register in which could be found the names, ages and marks of each. Had the records of horse-breeding during the Revolution, and the time immediately following, been more carefully kept, there is no doubt that the stables of the present day could boast descendants of the renowned stable, which included the fiery Blueskin, the famous full-blooded Arabian, Magnolia, Ajax, Valiant, and Chinkling. Some of the hounds were named Vulcan, Ringwood, Singer, True Love, Music, Sweetlips Forester and Rockwood.

Following these early morning hunts, the party would return to Mt. Vernon for dinner, usually finding additional guests who had arrived from neighboring estates to learn the result of the hunt and to enjoy the afternoon's gaiety.

A bounteous dinner was served, after which some of the guests would play loo, the preferred game of the times, others would gather about the harpsichord, and with the accompaniment of lute and violin, raise their voices in pleasing choruses.

After supper which was served about nine or ten o'clock, there was usually dancing—the minuett, and folly country dances which the young people especially enjoyed. As all rose early for the hunting, the hour of retirement was not late.

All sports were suspended during the war, and hunting was never revived at Mt. Vernon on its old-time scale. In 1785, Lafayette presented Washington with a pack of hounds, but increasing private and public duties caused him to give up such pleasure.

COLORED PHOTOGRAPHY

VIENNA, Nov. 11.—A new and simple method of colour photography has been invented by the Vienna engineer, Alfred Barris. By it three pictures are made simultaneously on celluloid foils. The films are then copied on a specially prepared paper, on which the different colors become visible. The secret and the force of the new method lies in the preparation of this paper and the exactness of the copying. Three hundred colored copies can be made from one film is the claim. The new invention is said to make colour photography as cheap and easy as the black and white one.

AN EYE-MINDED PEOPLE

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 11.—Sixty-five per cent of the knowledge of normal individuals is assimilated through the visionary organs, according to results of scientific experiments just completed in the University of Southern California psychology laboratory. Of approximately 25 per cent was shown to be the direct result of auditory experiences, with about 10 per cent attributed to the remaining sensory apparatus in human organisms—touch, taste and smell.

Sea Moss Hand Lotion

The secret of smooth, young-looking hands is simple — just this: give them a little care, often, with Sea-Moss Lotion. Cooking, cleaning and house-work dry out the natural oil, making the hands rough, red and stiff. Rub in a little Sea-Moss — it soothes and smooths the hands.

Practical Demonstrations and Important Discussions will be given on Rumford. Miss Jessie M. DeBoth and her lecturers are enthusiastic users of Rumford, the pure all-phosphate Baking Powder.

THERE'S nothing new about the fact of Rumford's two-to-one leavening action. The real truth is that Rumford always leavened in the perfect two-to-one proportion. This scientific aspect of Rumford's leavening power is a matter of routine acceptance and has been from the very beginning.

Now-a-days, however, intelligent women are being bombarded with the "why" of this—the "wherefore" of that.

And we realize that here is a fact of unusual interest—a truth of real importance to busy housewives. So we have analyzed this basic truth and women all over the country have been quick to grasp its real significance in relation to their own busy schedules.

They turn to Rumford and find they can save time by early preparation of doughs for hot breads; they can rest easy about slamming the oven door or jarring movements while the cake is baking; their bakings are perfectly leavened and retain their freshness.

In fact Rumford's two-to-one leavening action produces perfect confidence in baking results. Listen to the interesting story of Rumford in the demonstrated lectures at the Cooking School.

THREE BIG FOOTBALL
FRAYS THIS WEEK END

By Copland C. Barz

(I. N. S. Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—(INS).—The East's three undefeated major college football teams will meet today in three of the most important games of the season. The Harvard-Yale game, which will be played at Yale, is the most important of the three. The Harvard-Columbia game, which will be played at Harvard, is the second most important. The Cornell-Yale game, which will be played at Cornell, is the third most important.

Harvard, Cornell and Syracuse are the three big teams of the East which will be in the thick of the action this week-end. Harvard is the favorite to win the Yale game, which will be played at Yale. Cornell is the favorite to win the Yale game, which will be played at Cornell. Syracuse is the favorite to win the Cornell game, which will be played at Cornell.

Coach Gil Dobie's 1931 edition, which beat Columbia after the New York eleven walloped Dartmouth, gets what some folks call the acid test in clashing with the boys from Hanover. The big green machine has developed swiftly since the Columbia debacle and the class the Dartmouth youths showed against Yale and Harvard in the passing game makes them a formidable foe.

The Syracuse-Colgate is one of those traditional affairs and two good eleven will throw a dog fight to uphold the honor and glory of the dear and beloved past. Syracuse rates better, having gone without a defeat, while Colgate has lost one skirmish.

One of the sad events of the day appears to be Navy playing Notre Dame. They probably will call out the police and the Marines as well on this one. Navy has beaten no one and Notre Dame has soundly whipped everyone—excuse, please—except Northwestern. The purple tied the Irish on a soggy field. Navy's outlook is a good definition for a hopeless task.

In New York two of the local boys are going to try and make good. Fordham plays New York University and the fur will fly, as they say in the hinterlands.

A good Army team that went bad with tragedy and cripples will engage Pittsburgh. Army has met no one of importance in two weeks and just how the revamped eleven will work no one knows.

Columbia has another stiff test in Brown. Princeton—it's about time Princeton had a good pep talk—plays Washington and Lee. The question is, can the Tigers lose still another?

LONDON, Nov. 11.—Trouble is brewing in London's "No-Woman's Land"—the clubs. It's the economy campaign again.

There have been so many resignations from clubs by members wishing to economize on the club subscription that the clubs have become genuinely alarmed and are resorting to many novel expedients to hold their members and to meet their expenses.

Some clubs have installed table d'hôte luncheons at absurdly low prices as a bait. One club admitting men and women and enjoying royal patronage has installed a help-yourself-and-eat-as-much-as-you-like lunch at a low fixed price. Tempting dishes of many varieties are displayed at a long, narrow buffet table for members to picnic at.

Other clubs have reduced the price of drinks and one club has installed a free barber service.

At the same time, a drive has been started against the tipping nuisance. Tipping has always been against all club rules. Members expressed their appreciation of the service of club attendants by collecting a fund on two occasions during the year—for the summer holidays and for Christmas. This fund was divided equally among all club attendants.

Recently, however, members found that if they followed the rules they were about as badly off as guests at so-called "no-tipping" hotels who take the "no-tipping" signs seriously. They waited a long time for their lunch and when it did come it was cold and unpalatable. As a result, surreptitious tipping has become the rule. Now one big West End club has expelled two members for such tipping as a warning to others in an effort to break up the practice.

A touching epitaph to Thomas Edison appeared in the "New Statesman and Nation." It is by Miss Jan Struther, the author, and reads:

His genius he was quite content
In one brief sentence to define:
"Of inspiration one per cent,
Of perspiration ninety-nine."

A humble boast; but humbler yet
We felt, who heard, and knew full fine
One drop of that immortal sweat
Was worth a sea of yours or mine.

The recent visit of the Prince of Wales to Lourdes, famous shrine for many pious pilgrims, has aroused some misgivings in Protestant Church circles.

J. A. Kensit, secretary of the Protestant Truth Society, wrote the Prince, expressing the hope that the visit was not one "about which the great mass of British Protestants need have concern."

Sir Godfrey Thomas, the Prince's private secretary, replied in a letter:

"The Prince motored over one afternoon from Pau to Lourdes, and you can most certainly rest assured that His Royal Highness' visit, which happened to coincide with one of the periodical pilgrimages, was but a matter of sight-seeing and quite devoid of religious significance."

Eton, famous training place for British statesmen, is all set up over the prospect of having a real king among its pupils. It is announced that Prince Michael of Rumania, who was king and will be king again, is to study at this famous school. Eton pupils are already debating the initiation ceremonies.

When the heir to a famous dukedom was initiated on his first day at Eton not so long ago, he was given three hefty kicks—"one for the duke, one for the duchess, and one for luck."

But to kick royal hind quarters well, even Eton boys are dubious about the propriety of that.

Opera faces a fight for its life in London as everywhere else.

The opera season just ended at Covent Garden has been financially the most disastrous in the history of that famous house. It even lost the government subsidy guaranteed to it through the British Broadcasting Company, being unable to reach the required minimum of receipts.

One reason for the failure is said to have been the haphazard production methods of concentrating on a few stars and neglecting the rest of the company and the orchestra.

London Opera lovers are urging the Imperial League of Opera to join forces with the Opera syndicate, pool their resources, bring all British opera stars back, and produce opera on the same artistic scale as in Berlin, Dresden or New York.

THIS far this season, Harvard, New York University, Syracuse and possibly Penn are still leading contenders for grid supremacy in the East. At least one of those teams may be eliminated Saturday, and perhaps two, since both N. Y. U. and Syracuse meet first-class opposition in Fordham and Colgate respectively. Harvard will encounter stiff opposition from Holy Cross, but Penn should win handily from Georgia Tech.

The N. Y. U.-Fordham encounter at least will decide the grid championship of New York City. Rivalry is keen to the point of battle bitterness. Last year the Fordham Rams trampled on the Violent Violets, 7-0, but it looks now as though N. Y. U. will get ample revenge Saturday, because "Chick" Meehan's machine has given strong evidence of being one of the very best in the entire country. Maj. Frank Cavanaugh has been pointing the Rams for this game in particular; they are powerful, and N. Y. U. will have to show practically national championship class to turn back their old rivals.

Though beaten by N. Y. U., 13-0, on Oct. 24, Colgate (which never has a bad team) is likely to check the steady victory march of Syracuse. But it will not be to that 35-7 tune of last Fall because the Orange is vastly improved. Its coach, "Vic" Hanson, an all-American end at Syracuse a few years ago, has developed a splendid team for his alma mater. Colgate, of course, is coached by the canny "Andy" Kerr, one of football's veterans and genuine master minds. Few there are who have such an expert grasp of grid affairs as has the keen-eyed Sir Andrew whose teams, for years, have always been among the leading ten in the nation. In football lore already, he's one with such old masters as "Pop" Warner, "Lon" Stagg, "Gil" Dobie and "Bob" Zuppke. And he also has the tempo of the younger coaches like "Chick" Meehan, "Slip" Madigan, "Dick" Hanley, Eddie Casey and their ilk. If Fordham is extra formidable and Kerr-coached Colgate at its best, both N. Y. U. and Syracuse will be tossed out of titular lists 'fore sunset this Saturday.
